FREEPORT ROWDIES BRUTALLY ASSAULT VICTORIOUS RIVALS

HAWLEY AND BOND SERIOUSLY SLUGGED

PRESIDENT ELLIOTT UP IN ARMS
OVER OUTRAGE

DEFEAT CRAZES ILL. FANS

Swarm Field and Attack Winners,
While Umpire Bush Is Bulldozed
Into Forfeiting 2nd Game

One of the most outrageous illustrations of the "cheap skate" sporting fraternity making Freeport their rendezvous occurred yesterday when, after outplaying the Canners in the opening game the La Crosse team was attacked and some of its members brutally rowdy players and reckless hoodlums, whose outrages went apparently unmolested by the club officers in the Illinois city.

After the riot La Crosse went onto the field for the second game, but were driven off by rowdies who swarmed onto the field, and were forced to retire under guard to their hotel, while the crowd swarmed menacingly around Umpire Bush who was forced by threats of personal violence to forfeit the second game to Freeport. The game, however, is added to the La Crosse percentage column, and this will undoubtedly be upheld by President Moll of the league, as he but recently issued a special edict exactly covering the case.

Manager Hawley's Version.
Manager "Pink" Hawley of the La Crosse team telephoned twice to President Elliott in this city last evening, giving the details of the riot.

According to Hawley, Freeport had Stiele, a short, heavy-set player, who is a poor baserunner, on first base, and wished to place another man, a faster runner, on that base to run for him. Captain Bond of the La Crosse club refused this, whereupon Pitcher Warhop of Freeport ran over to Bond and brutally assaulted him. The La Crosse players ran to Bond's assistance, among them Manager Hawley, who no sooner reached the scene of action, than Warhop turned upon him in a most vicious manner, throwing a ball which he happened to have in his hand at him, and also pummeling at Hawley with his fists.

Manager Pink Hawley, who was assaulted at Freeport yesterday.

Knocks Warhop Down.
"Pink" was equal to the occasion, however, and knocked Warhop down several times.

The fans then swarmed out onto the field, led by Director McCarthy, two special police, and numerous "crazy" fans, and began to beat at Hawley with clubs and anything they could find.

In the meanwhile, President Rode-meyer and a bunch of other fans assaulted Bond, who was badly beaten up and had his lip split in a most painful manner.

They finally succeeded in hushing up the quarrel, and finishing, won the game.

This is Hawley's version, and without question a true one, of the row.

A Freeport Version.
The Milwaukee Free Press, in its story telegraphed from Freeport, and undoubtedly bearing a tinge of Freeport favoritism, follows:

"The trouble started in the eighth inning. Stiele, Freeport's utility man, who batted for Scott, was spiked so badly at first base that he "Fifteen men on a dead man's chest!

Ho! And a bottle of rum!"

It wasn't Captain Kid and his soulful crew. In fact, there wasn't any kid about it, unless it was Kid Abel. It was this way.

Glen Menzemer, the burglar recently convicted, whether under a humorous inspiration or not one cannot say, confided to his counsel that he had dug and hid many talents in the ground. The treasure, all of $125, was buried somewhere above River Junction, and would the gentlemen get it?

A party composed of A. C. Wolfe, A. E. Bleckman and Jimmie Abel, each astride a bicycle, left early yesterday morning to find the hidden wealth. They went to La Crescent, hence over the railroad to Bridge Switch, and then up the river division. There they spread out a mysterious chart drawn by the condemned man. It showed that beneath a coupling pin eleven paces north of the third log shanty north of the depot by the waterfront, deep down in the bowels of the defenseless earth, the pelf was secreted. They studied this with the keen discrimination of the legal mind, and from the results they obtained their translation must have been something like:

"On thy first turning, turn upon thy right hand; on thy second turning turn upon thy left hand; on thy third turning turn neither upon thy right hand nor thy left hand, but turn down indirectly."

They got back late last night. One of the bicycles was wrecked and the enthusiastic trio was smeared with the rich mire of Minnesota. They had failed to get the money, but that was simply because they had been unable to locate the coupling pin.

Mr. Bleckman told a friend in confidence today that some of the fellows had gone back. He excused his own lack of enterprise by admitting that he had failed to say to his comrades that Menzemer had admitted to him that a pal of his, still at large, was aware of the whereabouts of the loot.

ESCAPES DEATH OF MILL ON FANS

ARLINGTON, S. D., Sept. 17.—Caught up by the fans of a windmill and whirled over and over in the air, fifty feet from the ground, was the experience of Nils Hanson, living near Lake Poinsett.

Hanson was standing on the elevated platform at the top of the tower, oiling the gearing, when his little daughter, not knowing of her father's position, started the mill in motion. A terrific wind was blowing, and as the mill whirled into the wind his clothing was caught by the fans and he was jerked from his feet and was swung off into space. He described two circles of the big wheel before his clothing gave way, when he providentially was landed on the narrow platform just under the fans.

One arm was broken in the fall, but with the other the man was able to grab one edge of the timbers and save himself from being dashed to the ground, fifty feet below. The mill was stopped, and with one arm hanging limp and his clothing torn to strips he was able to make his descent to the ground.

STANDARD'S BOND IS SIX MILLIONS

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Judge Grosscup today fixed the bond for the appearance of the Standard Oil of Indiana in its appeal from Landis' fine, at four million dollars.

This guarantees all the property of the trust in Illinois will be intact until the appeal is heard. He fixed the bond for a writ of supersedeas at two million. The standard of New Jersey, was accepted as surety in both cases.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Gompers today issued an appeal to organized labor for funds for the striking telegraphers.

NEW LA CROSSE PUBLIC LIBRARY, AS IT WILL APPEAR WHEN COMPLETED NEXT YEAR

The accompanying cut shows the La Crosse public library, as it will appear when completed, according to the plans which have practically been adopted for the improvement by the La Crosse library board of trustees, Messrs. F. A. Copeland, G. M. Woodward, John M. Holley, E. E. Bentley, L. C. Colman and John Brindley. The proposed addition will cost $25,000 and when completed the library will be one of the handsomest in the northwest. The financial ways and means are now under consideration by the directors, and while the money has not been provided this will probably not be an obstacle to the fulfillment of the plans. The remodeled building will have an exterior cut stone effect instead of brick.

$15,000 TELEPHONE DEAL CLOSED TODAY

DR. CRAEMER BUYS CASHTON
LINE FROM GEO. HALL

APPRAISE PROPERTY TODAY

J. George Schweizer and Other Local Telephone Experts Take Part in Deal's Consummation

When the appraisal of the property is completed tonight, the Cashton Telephone company will have been sold to Dr. C. H. Craemer by George Hall, the present owner. Competition caused by parallel lines has caused Hall to accept the offer of Craemer. Between $12,000 and $15,000 will change hands on the deal.

J. George Schweizer, secretary of the La Crosse Interurban Telephone company, and E. J. Kneen, and Nicholas Elsen, each of Bangor, Wis., are at Cashton today, appraising the value of the properties. The work will not be finished tonight.

The exchange at Cashton is the largest single piece of property in the deal. Outside the exchange there are about twenty farm lines, radiating through country adjacent to Cashton.

"The deal will mean the expenditure of between $12,000 and $15,000," said Secretary Schweizer today. "I can say no more about it, the appraisers being at work, fixing a value on the plant."

The Cashton exchange connects with La Crosse through the means of the La Crosse Interurban company.

MRS. AMELIA ROSE GOES TO REWARD

Mrs. Amelia Rose, mother of Mrs. Clara Pamperin, passed away yesterday morning at 3 o'clock.

Deceased was born at Gundersleben, near Nordhausen, Germany, Dec. 22, 1818. Her maiden name was Amelia Marie Bennekenstein.

She was married on Oct. 5th, 1843, to Mr. Louis Rose, who passed away Feb. 5, 1897.

In 1854 he came to America and settled in La Crosse in 1857 and is one of the pioneers of this country.

Those who survive are her children, Mrs. Clara Pamperin, Mrs. Anna Logier, and Emil Rose of Denver, Colorado, and one brother, Geo. B. Rose.

The funeral will take place Thursday at 2:30 o'clock from the residence, 507 South Fifth street.

REV. CLEMENS TO READ A PAPER

The regular monthly meeting of the Humane society will be held this evening in the city hall.

The usual monthly report will be read by Human Officer C. H. Berry and the remainder of the evening will be devoted to a paper which will be read by Rev. J. J. Clemens upon recent investigations which he has been making in regard to the spread of tuberculosis.

40 KILLED BY BLAST ON SHIP

JAPANESE GUN SHELL EXPLODE
ABOARD KASHIMA

VESSEL IS BADLY DAMAGED

Bystanders and Officers of the Ship
Are Among Those Badly
Mangled.

TOKIO, Sept. 17.—Forty casualties are reported in an explosion of a twelve inch shell aboard the Japanese battleship Kashima.

The explosion occurred near Kure Sept. 9. The Kashima was commanded by Capt. Koizumi and the fatalities include a lieutenant, two cadets and one staff officer. L-tails are lacking, but it is known that the explosion was terrific, badly damaging the ship. The accident followed an attempt to remove an unexploded shell from the gun. A number of bystanders were mutilated. The Kashima was the largest battleship ever launched on the Tyne, England.

Twenty-seven dead. Later reports say the shell did not burst, but that the explosion was due to ignition of powder by the gas from the gun breech. Twenty-seven are now reported dead, five officers and 22 men and several wounded.

WANTS YOUNG MEN RESTRAINED

Albert Anderson and John Hanson, each of the North side, were arrested today on complaint of J. K. Layland, a farmer, who asked that the two be put under bonds to keep the peace.

Layland charged that the youths threatened to assault him with a chair, and beat him severely. A charge of abusive language also was preferred against Hanson.

After a plea of not guilty, Judge Brindley continued the cases until Thursday morning, at 10 o'clock. The defendants may return and enter a plea of guilty before that time.

MRS. DARLING GRANTED $100

Mrs. Sarah A. Darling, 1446 Rose street, a widow, was awarded $100 damages against Alderman William Grover, 1719 Kane street, by a jury in circuit court this morning. Mrs. Darling sued for $2,000 damages, because of a letter written to the United States commissioner of pensions at Washington, in which Mrs. Darling was called a "woman of not good moral character."

The $100 damages are for actual damage to character. The jury decided Mr. Grover was not to be punished for the motive he had for writing the letter.

The jury returned with a verdict at 2:18 o'clock this afternoon.

Charge Road Over.
The case was given to the jury this morning at 9:40 o'clock. Yesterday afternoon, Attorney Raymond for Mrs. Darling, and Attorney Hood,

STATE CAPITOL BOARD TO MEET

WILL CONSIDER THE INTERIOR
DECORATIONS

TO LOCATE HEATING PLANT

Architect Is Called and Business
Will be Transacted on Thursday of This Week.

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 17.—(Special.)—A meeting of the state capitol building commission, the first to be held since June 4, has been called for Thursday this week, to consider the plans for the interior decorations of the west wing and likewise the question of locating a heating plant.

George Post of New York, architect of the building, is expected Wednesday afternoon and he will bring with him the detail plans of the inside finishings. It is not probable that the contracts for this work will be let at this time, but probably at some later meeting.

Three sites are being considered for the location of the capitol heating plant. Two of these are on East Washington avenue about half a mile from the capitol square. One is known as the Boyd property and the other is about two blocks further away, on the Cooley grounds, or in the vicinity of the Cooley coal yard on East Washington avenue.

The third site is westerly about a mile from the capitol on West Dayton street, the vicinity of "Bog Hollow," being considered as desirable. There have been a number of other sites suggested, but it is reasonably certain that all of the others, excepting these three, have already been eliminated from further consideration.

It is planned that wherever located, the plant will be easily accessible by railroads and the ground between it and the capitol building will be tunneled for the delivery of materials, under ground.

"There is much routine matter to come before the meeting," said Secretary Few F. Porter today. "There have been no meetings for some time and the members will naturally be interested in seeing how much work has been done. There is enough stone on the ground to complete the second story and more is on the road. I don't hesitate to say that I believe the building will be enclosed by the holidays."

"Under the present plans work of pulling down the old east wing will be started next spring. We now have the plans and the work can be pushed."

PROMINENT ELKS KILLED IN AUTO

COLORADO SPRINGS, Sept. 17.—Three elks were killed outright today when an auto containing an array of seven returning from Manitou collided with a telephone pole.

The dead:
WILLIAM RALLSTON, electrical supplies dealer.
BRITTON GRAVES, druggist.
CHAUFFEUR GRAY.
The fourth man is said to be dying. The party was returning from a celebration at a club house in Manitou.

MORRIS ANNOUNCES R.M. LAFOLLETTE'S BOOM IS BOOMING

SENATOR SAYS STATE ORGANI-ZATION BEING PERFECTED

NO FORMAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Morris Believes La Follette Will Not Make One—Senatorship Not In State.

A general and systematic organization of Senator La Follette's campaign to secure the Wisconsin delegation to the national republican convention in support of his presidential candidacy, has been begun, according to Senator Thomas Morris, who has just returned from Milwaukee, where he met the senator and many of his political friends in the informal conference at the Plankinton.

"Is Senator La Follette a candidate for the presidency?" Mr. Morris was asked.

"He is," replied Senator Morris. "This is the first authoritative statement regarding the subject that has been made, although the fact has been well known."

"Will Senator La Follette make a formal announcement of his candidacy?" asked the reporter.

"If you are asking for my opinion, I think not, because there is nothing to be added to what is now known, by such an announcement. I do not know positively," said Mr. Morris.

Senator Morris says that the organization is along the usual lines upon which Senator La Follette moves. Asked if there is any "slate" as to the senatorship at the conclusion of Senator Stephenson's present term, he replied, rather enigmatically:

"In my opinion the presidential candidacy of Senator La Follette will be prosecuted upon its merits and without any relation to the senatorship."

Senator Morris did not know of any particular man who is the choice of the liberal republicans for senator. He could not say whether Congressman Esch would seek the office.

YOUNG WIFE SAID BRONSON SHOULD DIE

Mrs. William Bronson, Sr., defendant in a divorce action brought by her octogenarian husband, proprietor of the Hotel Bronson, 205-209 Pearl street, evidently believes in Oserism.

On the stand yesterday, while undergoing an examination under the discovery statute by the attorneys for the defendant, Attorney E. C. Higbee before Court Commissioner John Daniels, Mr. Bronson swore that his wife had told him he ought to be dead. Age, Mr. Bronson gave his years as 82, was the only disqualification that the wife urged against her husband. During the examination the plaintiff swore his wife had told him he ought to die.

The plaintiff also swore that while he was sick at the hotel, his wife had failed to care for him, and it was necessary for his son, William Bronson, Jr., to nurse him. The plaintiff also alleges that his wife took his diamond ring, and has failed to return it to him.

The divorce action will come up at the next or a special term of circuit court.

NOMINATION IS ANYBODY'S PRIZE

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Governor Johnson of Minnesota declared today there was no logical candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, and when the convention assembles it will be anybody's prize. He says he has no axe to grind and declared the day of the absolute political boss had passed, and that the next democratic platform will conserve the rights of people against the trusts, with the railroad problem as one of the issues.

SUES ICE CONCERN FOR $20 WAGES

Suit has been brought against L. C. Jenks by F. O. Wells for wages to the amount of $20.

The trial was held this afternoon at C. W. Hunt's court and was adjourned until the next session of circuit court.

Wells was a teamster for the Arctic Ice and Fuel company.

STOLE HUNDRED CHICKS IN BUNCH

CALEDONIA, Minn., Sept. 7.—Chicken thieves have been active in this village of late. One hundred chickens are reported to have been stolen in one night from one coop. No clue to the raiders has been found.

PETITION ESCH TO SAVE BASS FIELDS ABOUT THIS CITY

GOVERNMENT STATION DE-
PLETING GROUNDS

IS A WORK OF DESTRUCTION

Instead of a Work of Rescue, and
Lawyer Is Secured to Draw Up
Protest to Cong. Esch

Black bass fry, taken from the waters of the Mississippi by the crew of the government fish steamer Curlew, and employees of the fish station on the shore of Black river, are being shipped to interior points in the state, small rivers and lakes, depleting the fishing grounds near La Crosse, claim local sportsmen.

The work of rescue, which was planned by the station, has developed, the sportsmen claim, into a work of destruction, in which La Crosse is the loser to the extent of the best bass fishing grounds on the upper Mississippi.

So acute is the sentiment against the work of the fish station that Attorney F. H. Hartwell, of Morris & Hartwell, has been employed to draw up a petition to be presented to Representative John J. Esch, asking that the practice be stopped, or that the collecting crews secure their supply of fish only from the land locked waters, wherein the fry would perish if left alone. The sportsmen also ask that the fry, not taken by the crews—they use only back bass and bullhead minnows—be returned to the stream.

The support of the fishermen and hunters of the south side, the North Side Rod & Gun club, and the Burlington Gun club, has been pledged in the movement, while individuals also have promised to aid, and retain the fish near La Crosse.

Have Made Investigation
Sportsmen have not taken this action without a careful investigation, in which the crews of the Curlew have been followed, and their methods of operation watched. The claim is made that the landlocked waters are not touched, but that the supply of fry is taken from small bays, which open into the Mississippi. The fish are able to move into the river, and back to the bays, even with the three foot stage of water of today.

When the fish station was brought to La Crosse, the work was outlined as that of rescue, in which the fry would be taken only from the landlocked waters. Confined here, and with no chance to escape, the fish would perish if not liberated. The sportsmen say the crews pass the landlocked waters and enter the bays because the work is easier, the supply of fish larger, and the record of the station, is made to appear to better advantage of the employees and also the superintendent.

Another charge made is that certain fry not used, notably pike and craypin minnows, are left to die on the banks. After a haul through one of the open bays, the fish are dumped onto the bank, the black bass and bullhead minnows being taken out for shipment to various points in the state. The pike and craypin minnows are left high and dry. One turn of the net to the water would place these fish back in their home, where they would grow into good size, and furnish the sup-

MAYOR OF VELVA MUZZLES ALL DOGS

VELVA, N. D., Sept. 17.—Velva is wrought up over a mad dog scare. A cur came in from the south and bit dogs and horses. Twenty dogs have been shot. The mayor has issued an edict that all dogs must be tied up or muzzled within twenty-four hours, thereby hoping to rid the city of rabid dogs.

James B. Maynard, president of the excavating company of this place, narrowly escaped being bitten. The dog was finally shot.

MEN OF NOTE

Rear Ad. Eugene H. C. Leutze

Rear Admiral Eugene Henry Cozens Leutze of the United States navy was born at Dusseldorf, Prussia, November 16th, 1847. He was appointed to the Naval Academy at Annapolis from the District of Columbia on March 4th, 1863, and was graduated from that institution in 1867. The admiral married Miss Julia Jarvi McAlpine in 1873. He had had a long and honorable career serving in many foreign stations when he was sent to join Admiral Dewey in time for the latter's attack on Manila during the Spanish-American war and was of great service during the battle of Manila Bay. He commanded the navy yard established by the Americans at Cavite, near the city of Manila, in 1898. He was later superintendent of the Washington navy yard and the big gun factory stationed there.

SPOTLIGHTS

"As Told in the Hills."
"As Told in the Hills" at the grand opera house this week is different from most dramas in the important matters of story, staging and acting. It is a plausible tale told in an interesting manner, and is presented by a company of conscientious and capable actors. Miss Dorothy Grey, who cast in the principal female role, and proved herself an actress of rare ability, both in make up and delivery of her lines.—Los Angeles Herald.
"As Told in the Hills" will play an engagement of one night at the La Crosse theatre next Wednesday evening, Sept. 18th.

The performance at the Bijou this week is creditable, embracing several good turns. Dancing which is always popular, abounds in plenty. Welch and Earl, the two in white, do a fairly good turn. Miss Earl's voice would be a good one if she had the slightest idea how to use it. They both make a good stage appearance. Allen Wightman in clay modeling and pastel painting is extremely interesting with his different faces, the only one falling a little short being that of Roosevelt, who had the hat and glasses, but not the firm jaw. His last picture is very pretty. Morgan and McGarry, singing and dancing comedians, did a mediocre turn, in the way of singing, but their last dance was good.
The headliners this week are Tom and Edith Almond, the European novelty duo, who charm and please very much. Edith Almond is an adept on the slide trombone and saxophone, but plays her latter number as if she was trying to run away from the accompaniment; anything can be played very rapidly and still perfect time be kept. Tom Almond is one of the best novelty dancers ever seen at this popular little theatre, the dance with the stiff shoes making a big hit, while his dance on ice skates on a high pedestal is certainly an accomplishment. His impersonation of the "dude" is fine. Herman Le Fleur sings a mournful Indian melody, "Os-ka-oo-sa-oo," in a dreary manner and the slides are not very captivating. The adventures of poor "Jim," the apprentice, are followed with delight in the moving pictures. Kreutz's orchestra enlivened both performances last evening.

THE FUTURE FOR THE FILIPINOS.

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat.)
Under the statute which goes into effect two months hence the Filipinos will have a far greater control over their local affairs than the people of India are allowed to have after 150 years of British ascendancy.
The educated Filipino knows these things. He knows that the United States, after only nine years of dominion, is granting more favors to his countrymen than Spain allowed them after 350 years of sovereignty. The concessions which neither Spain nor England grant their Asiatic subjects would not be likely to be given by Japan, an Asiatic nation. If the Filipinos have any doubt on that point it can be removed instantly by a glance at Japan's rule in Formosa and Korea. Moreover, the measure of self-rule which we are about to extend to the Filipinos is only the beginning of concessions which probably are ultimately to comprise an autonomy much like that which Canada and Australia have under England. In a war with Japan the Filipinos would have excellent reasons to remain loyal to the United States.
There is record of cotton produced in Siam as far back as 2,500 years.

FASHION HINTS
(By May Manton.)

5779 Girl's Dress, 4 to 10 years.

Such a pretty little frock as this one is available for a great many materials and a great many occasions. As illustrated it is made of Persian lawn trimmed with embroidery and is dainty enough for the afternoon party or occasions of similar dress. It can be completely transformed, however, by being made high at the neck and with long sleeves, the material being some light weight wool or some pretty colored washable fabric. French gingham is exceedingly well liked and is always charming and washable frocks are worn by many little girls throughout the entire year. Also velveteen, cashmere and the like always are in demand and can be trimmed with frills of the same and some pretty braid, when the dress will be admirably well suited to prosaic school use or be chosen in a lighter color and treated as illustrated when a more dainty frock will result.
The frock is made with waist and skirt portions. The waist is tucked at both front and back and is joined to a yoke that is trimmed on indicated lines. This yoke can be cut either high or with the half square. Short or long sleeves can be used, but both are gathered into bands. The skirt is five gored and as illustrated the trimming is arranged over the seams.
The quantity of material required for the medium size (8 years) is 4 1/2 yards 27, 3 1/2 yards 32 or 2 3/4 yards 44 inches wide with 3 1/4 yards of embroidery for the frill and 4 3/4 yards of wide, 2 1/4 yards of narrow banding to make as illustrated.
The pattern 5779 is cut in sizes for girls of 4, 6, 7 and 10 years of age and will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper on receipt of ten cents. (If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage which insures more prompt delivery.)

OF HUMAN INTEREST

There is an old song which runs:
"Are we forgotten when we're gone,
Are all life's hopes and dreams in vain.
Do those that linger round our home
Ever fondly wish for us again?"

It was brought to my mind very vividly a day or two ago by seeing in the window of one of the downtown stores a most beautiful monument built of chrysanthemums in loving memory of our martyred president, William McKinley. The years have flown rapidly by since that awful event, and "Time, the great healer," has perhaps made us forget to some extent, but few of us probably fail to remember the actual anguish of those hours when a country knew his life was slipping away and wondered how they could spare him.

Isn't that we think any the less of those that went before in the same way, but Mr. McKinley nearly all of us had seen, and we loved him not only for himself, but for his wonderful devotion to his invalid wife. The gloom and sadness have passed for her now too, and she was spared the sorrow of living over the 6th anniversary of his death, for her sorrow at this time was always most acute.
No, we have certainly not forgotten William McKinley. I don't think many of us of this generation will ever forget him—he remains a most cherished and hallowed memory and no more fitting tribute to our country and to him could have been paid, than by remembering him in this way at this time.

SHOULD MAIDENS BEWARE OF KANSAS?

(New York Times.)
Kansas is at it again, demanding more teachers from the east. The teachers Kansas wants are always of the feminine gender. We have Chicago authority for believing that it entices them out there by the hundreds and they go guilelessly with the idea instructing youth in the cardinal virtues and the rudiments of knowledge, only to be snapped up and married by the young farmers.

Not the Engine.
John Racklemann was cruising in the vicinity of Crosby slough in his motor boat.
The bunch was sitting upon the bank.
John hadn't really been cruising for some time, but he had cranked some at the engine.
"What's the matter, John?" queried one.
"Ach, leiber—!!??" mumbled the usually good natured sausage maker, "she won't run."
"Something the matter with the engine?"
"Ach! Nein! Der engine is all right, but der carpenter won't work."

Ben Hur Coming.

The local theatre management has booked "Ben Hur" for three nights in March, 1909.
A trifle early for an advance notice, but this serves to illustrate the difficulty in securing this attraction, it being necessary to sign up nearly three years in advance.
And when it comes the whole stage will have to be remodeled, the old floor removed and special provisions made for staging the gigantic production.

Chauncy.

As usual, Chauncy was very pleasing, and the audience was as pleasing to Chauncy, for the house was sold out.
Oleott always manages to have a clever how, and "O'Neill From Derry," was no exception.
Oleott's voice is sweet, and his songs are catchy.

It did seem that France and England were precipitated into a bloody war without much provocation, but then this was necessary to make the play end well, and we like plays that end well.

We wouldn't have kicked at buying an ice cream soda for Kate, either, had she been thirsty, but as O'Neill said, she drank the dew from the opening rose, and stepped forth form it's heart, a fanciful ideal into being, so we judged she was not dry.

Chauncy is always clever, and so are his plays—that is why La Crosse will always turn out to hear and see him.

THE FILIPINO AS A WORKER.

(Engineering Magazine.)

Cebu presents the fairest opportunity to estimate the capacity of its indigenous workers because the railway construction has been pushed most rapidly there. Within three months the forces composed of men brought fresh from the plantations, where they had never known the tools and appliances of civilization, nor scarcely even seen a white man, were able to proceed with the grading, using picks, shovels, and wheelbarrows, at the rate of 110,000 yards per month, an average of 30,000 yards being rock, drilled by hand.

Grades of four feet are thrown up without difficulty by the little fellows. And these results were attained despite the fact that the white foremen have left a great deal to be desired, being mostly such representatives of the republic as could be found in the islands unattached by contract to any regularly established business or industry.

At first a strong predilection appeared for the use of feet and hands rather than picks and shovels for working the earth, and it was difficult to persuade some that the wheelbarrows were not receptacles to be carried upon the backs when filled, according to the ancient custom of burden bearing throughout the orient. With the use of just a reasonable amount of tact and patience such as should be possessed by all white men in colonizing work, and which is nearly always possessed by the colonizing Britisher, for instance, the foregoing little idiosyncrasies of the Filipino were quickly overcome.

AN ISLAND FOR AUTHORS.

(Baltimore Sun.)
For two weeks in August a small island in the St. John's river held more than its due proportion of literary folk. The island was but half a mile in diameter and the literary folk numbered seven, six of whom belonged to the same family. The dean of the camping organization was Charles G. D. Roberts, nature writer and poet; his brother Theodore Roberts, author of "Hemming the Adventurer," "Brothers of Peril," etc., whose new book, "The Red Feathers," is announced for autumn; William Carman Roberts, another brother, writer and editor of the Literary Digest; Mrs. William Carman Roberts, his wife, editor of The Craftsman; Elizabeth Roberts MacDonald, author of "Dream Verses," "Our Little Canadian Cousin," etc., sister of Charles G. D. Roberts, and Lloyd Roberts, his son, a poet and formerly assistant editor of The Outing Magazine. There were in the party, as the guests of Charles G. D. Roberts, George Bronson Howard, the Baltimore author, and his friend, Richard Caton MacTavish, formerly of this city, but now of New York.

THE TRIBUNE STORY
MELINDA'S KNIGHT
BY CECILY ALLEN.
(Copyrighted by C. H. Sutcliffe.)

Melinda had come from up state. Before her arrival in the big, bustling city she had studied stenography and typewriting in an up state business college. She was a good stenographer, too, and would have done well in the city—if she had stuck to stenographic pot hooks and curly cues.

But Melinda would read novels, and when she had secured a position and settled herself in a hall room at the working girls' club the novel habit reasserted itself more strongly than ever, this perhaps because there was a secondhand bookstore just around the corner, where she could buy novels for 10 cents and exchange them for different ones by paying just 2 cents more. In fact, it was a circulating library system that made Melinda feel particularly elegant and independent and saved her a triweekly trip to the city library, a mile away.

Melinda did not care much for the girls she met at the working girls' club. They talked shop and shirt waists, and most of them worked in factories at less salary than Melinda received. She would not have remained at the club only she had to send her widowed mother some money every week, and the working girls' club was a stern necessity in the adjustment of her finances. Melinda was also a little bored with conversation about shirt waists, because she had to make the ones she had brought from home do her all season. So what was the use of discussing bargain counter styles in blouses?

It was much more fun to read novels, particularly the sort of novels most common at the secondhand bookshop, stories of English working lassies and chivalrous lords and dukes, who abandoned scented drawing rooms and red coated hunting fields to besiege the hearts of the forementioned honest working lassies.

Just about the time that Melinda had absorbed her three hundred and forty-ninth novel the bookkeeper gave her a couple of passes for the theater. It was just his luck, he explained, that the baby had the whooping cough when those passes came his way, but of course he wouldn't leave his wife alone of an evening under such circumstances. Melinda did not stop to consider that in a humble, twentieth century fashion this was rather a knightly thing for an underpaid bookkeeper to do, but she took the theater tickets gratefully and invited the assistant matron at the home to accompany her to the theater.

It was a wonderful play, called "The Road to Yesterday," and the natural climax of Melinda's course in novel reading, for in it a young girl and her lover and many other folk were transported back 200 years and did all the things of which one reads in novels centuries old. Its moral—or one of them—was that the old spirit of knight-hood lived in the twentieth century man, though it sometimes had rather a practical way of manifesting itself.

From that night, perhaps because of the play and perhaps because dog days set in, Melinda read fewer novels and hunted methodically for her twentieth century knight. It was too hot for her to light the gas in the small hall room or even to burn a lamp, and it was just right to sit on the stoop and watch passing figures that might suddenly blossom out as knights. So many of the figures slouched or stooped that Melinda got a bit discouraged and began to look for them by daylight—in the big office building where she worked.

But things had been going badly on the market, and most of the men who held possibilities of knight-hood hurried past her with quick, nervous strides, lowered heads and deep ringed eyes. Her fellow workers in the office were all married. The junior partner was engaged to a girl who had millions, a clubfoot and bad taste in frocks, so he held no knightly possibilities. To be sure, there was the boy who ran the elevator after 6 p. m. He always held the car when he saw Melinda coming on those nights on which she worked overtime. But he was scarcely over five feet three, his cheeks were a bucolic pink in hue, and his nose was freckled. Besides, he was paid to hold elevators and be obliging to tenants who worked overtime, and mere knight-hood on salary was not worth mentioning.

Once or twice he had brought her some garden flowers, the old fashioned kind, mignonette, heliotrope, phlox and ragged robins, that his mother raised in the garden of their suburban home. Melinda found them on her desk in a milk bottle without a card. A real knight, of course, would have a card or leave a glove or something of the sort.

Her search for a knight was lagging, partly because of the heat and partly because the hot, overworked men around her looked anything but knightly in midsummer, when the assistant matron, remembering the theater tickets, asked Melinda to make a trip down the bay and back one mercilessly hot night. Melinda assented languidly, and the assistant matron felt her heart stirred by a strange pity for this tired little up state girl, who sometimes, amid all the artificiality and sordidness of her city life, managed to hold on to her old ideals. She was so different from the other inmates of the club—a bit silly about novels and music and flowers, but still so shy and sweet.
It was a great night on the bay,

The Poet.
He sang of war; he burned men's blood to spill,
And yet he could not bear a fly to kill;
Ecstatic verse in woman's praise he made,
Though of all women he felt afraid;
For such as loved not Nature's charms he wept,
While to the crowded city streets he kept;
He urged all men the simple life to try,
But longed for things that wealth alone could buy;
And the whole world praised, to his shameless glee,
Not what he was, but what he'd hate to be.

Something cool and lovely was trickling on her forehead, her eyes, her cheeks, her lips. She was floating on a cloud. No, she was lying on wet sand, and the assistant matron was murmuring:
"No, no, she's not hurt. It was just the shock. She will be all right in a minute. But you, you wonderful, wonderful boy, to save us both!"
Oh, yes, the fire, the trampling feet, the brief glimpse into the great beyond—she remembered it all now. And some one had saved them. There was a real knight in New York after all.

She wanted to open her eyes and see him, but the lids were so heavy, so heavy. But she knew he was straight and tall and dark and pale and slender. All knights must be. And then the other voice said brokenly:
"You know I never had a chance to tell her I loved her. She was so backward and shy and always seemed to be looking right past me. She ain't like other girls I know—and you're sure she'll come around all right?"
Something in the voice made Melinda's eyelids turn light again. They popped open, and she looked straight into the anxious eyes of the elevator boy.

"Oh, then it wasn't a knight after all," she murmured as the assistant matron began to chafe her hands once more.
Melinda was sitting on the edge of the bed in the assistant matron's room. "I suppose they don't have to be tall and slender and pale and interesting if their hearts are all right and knightly. And Billy's heart is all right. He don't have to run an elevator, you know. His mother has quite a little money, but he's going to be an electrical engineer or superintendent of big buildings or something of that sort, and he says he wants to know everything from running elevators to running men, and then he can support me and mamma too. But when his mother came in to see me today she patted my hand and kissed me on both cheeks and said there was no reason why Billy and I should have to wait that long, because she thought there was love enough in my heart to keep two mothers going, and she had no daughter. She's just lovely, his mother is, and you'd know she was just the sort whose son would be a knight."

And the assistant matron remembered a stern, white face she had seen for just an instant on that dreadful night, felt once more the grip of his firm, strong hand and murmured, "Yes, of such stock do real knights spring."

RACINE, Wis., Sept. 17.—The big steel plant of the Higgins Axle and Steel company narrowly escaped being blown to pieces yesterday by the explosion of the 300-horse power marine boiler. One hundred men, working within sixty feet of the boiler might have been blown to pieces. The engineer was engaged in raising steam when the explosion came. It ripped off the back sheet of the boiler with fifteen flues and also put the fire out of the boiler and burned out the fireplace involving a loss of $2,500.

MR. ESCH GOES TO SPARTA, WIS.

Representative John J. Esch left today for Fountain City, Wis., on a business mission. He expects to be engaged there for only a short time.

From Fountain City, Mr. Esch will go directly to Sparta, Wis., where he will assist the official survey board in inspecting the Sparta and Camp Douglas permanent artillery practice grounds. The board is composed of Lieut. S. E. Allen, T. B. Bott, mayor of the Third artillery, and Capt. W. S. Overton of Battery C, Third artillery.

The entire week, it is expected will be consumed in the inspection of the site. From Sparta the party will proceed to Camp Douglas, and then Mr. Esch and Col. Orlando Holway of the Third regiment, Wisconsin National Guard, who expects to attend the meeting, will return to La Crosse.

STREET CAR COMPANY
HIRING NEW MEN

A number of new men are being "broken in" on the north side street car lines. This is probably being done to enable the company to handle the large crowds that will swarm the north side during the week of the carnival.

It is the opinion of some, however, that the company is breaking these men in so that in case the much talked of strike should be declared they would have sufficient men to keep up the service.

FUNERAL OF FRANK FORTUNSKI TODAY

Frank Fortunski, age 86, passed away Sunday afternoon at his home 930 Mississippi street, death resulting from paralysis.

He was born in Germany, October 4, 1821, and a son and daughter survive.

The funeral took place this morning from the Holy Cross church at 9 o'clock, Rev. Schrock officiating and interment in the Catholic cemetery.

JOHN ZANDBERGEN AT REST

John Van Zandbergen, the well known farmer at Midway, who died Tuesday after a lingering illness, was born in St. Anna, Netherlands, Feb. 28, 1830, and lived in that place until 1869, when he came to this country and settled in Butler county, Iowa. In 1880 he came to Wisconsin where he bought a farm near Holmen. In 1905 he sold his farm and retired, going to Midway, where he has since resided.

Deceased was survived by his widow and five children, Mamnus at Galesville; Charles of La Crosse; John Trepstra, Onalaska and Willie and George, who live at Midway.

The funeral took place from the Methodist church, Thursday, Sept. 12, Rev. Colman of Onalaska officiating, and A. E. Smith undertaker, having charge. The services were attended by many friends of the deceased and numerous floral contributions were offered. The pall bearers were R. Agle, John Haltz, Charlie Nuttig, A. Grams, F. Brown, and J. C. ### SYRIAN CASE IS UP TOMORROW

The case of Alex Mansoor, made notorious by the fruit venders' troubles, arrested by Mrs. Mike Abraham who claims he called her abusive names, was adjourned yesterday afternoon in Clinton W. Hunt's police court until the 18th.

The trouble arose over the fact that some time ago Mansoor struck her husband and was fined $6. She endeavored to further punish her husband's assailant and the quarrel resulted in the woman striking Mansoor in the face. For this she was fined. The next day she brought in the above suit against Mansoor for abusive language.

The case will come up tomorrow.

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weaknesses and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cures. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy of known composition, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by old Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much imitated but never equaled. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

RY. COMMISSION HEARS ROAD CASE

SOO SUBSIDIARY COMPANY IS UP TOMORROW

WOULD OPERATE SHORT LINE

Jim Hill Interests Bitterly Oppose Granting of Certificate, But it May Be Given

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 17.—(Special.)—With all the evidence submitted, the railroad rate commission has set Wednesday as the time to hear arguments on the matter of granting a certificate of public convenience and necessity to the Wisconsin and Northern Minnesota railroad, a subsidiary of the Soo, which proposes to operate a line from the city limits of Superior to the Interstate bridge. This is a distance of five or six miles.

The request has been bitterly opposed by the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads, mainly upon the ground that it will tie up traffic in already congested yards. Attorneys J. A. Murphy and Louis Hanitch will appear in opposition and Judge L. K. Luse will argue that the certificate should be granted.

Saturday has been fixed as the time for giving a hearing on another line which wishes to enter Superior. The Eastern Minnesota, a subsidiary company of the Great Northern, asks for a certificate to build an elevated line from near the point where the property of the Soo line crosses the Superior terminal railroad, to the Interstate bridge. The Northern Pacific and Omaha are expected to oppose the granting of the certificate.

PETITION ESCH TO

ply of fish for the Nimrod of the year to come.

Millions Are Lost. Oftentimes fry of fingerling size, which would grow into fighters with in a year, are left to die on the bank. Included in the fry thus abandoned are others besides pike and croppies. Sunfish are not used, while pickereel also are not taken. In these two ways the fishing grounds in the vicinity are being depleted of the supply, not only to improve fishing in other localities, but in various species being left to die on the banks.

The fish thus taken, the black bass and bullheads, are loaded onto cars and shipped to various points. One car will hold on the average of 30,000 fry. If two cars are shipped each week, La Crosse loses 60,000 fry in one week, not including those left on the banks to succumb to the rays of the sun. In a month 240,000 fry are shipped away, while four months will see nearly a million young fish hauled from the waters, and planted in interior points in the state. These figures do not include the fish abandoned, which will number from three to eight times the number shipped.

At Prairie du Chien, Wis., as many fry as taken out of the river have been planted, the superintendents receiving orders from Washington to liberate the fry there. No fish have been replanted in the vicinity of La Crosse after being taken from the water. Just now the Curlew and crew of men is working near Prairie du Chien.

Seek Easy Work. The method of work follows: The crew leaves the North side fish station for the small ponds and sloughs abounding between Black and the Mississippi river. The landlocked waters are supposed to be netted. This entails an unusually hard amount of work. It necessitates transporting the fish across the soft boggy ground, usually a long haul. Instead the bayous which extend to the main river, or into smaller streams, are netted. In this manner the station is able to show a big record with little work on behalf of the crew. From the launches of the Curlew, the fish are taken to the north side station in the big boat and thence shipped about the state. Orders are received here for shipping, so many thousand, and the members of the government fish car do the distributing.

Sportsmen tell the story of one poor fisherman seeking the use of minnows left on the banks to die to use as bait on his set line. In the lot were several pike, larger than fingerling size, almost six inches long. The crew sternly ordered him not to touch the abandoned minnows as they had no authority to give them away. They implied, however, that they might be taken when their backs were turned.

Other sportsmen, especially those who inhabit French lake, Round lake, and other game ponds, have followed the crew, and know of the enormous lots of fish left to die on the banks. Several individuals have taken it upon themselves to do the detective work, while others, with summer homes on the shores of French lake, have done the same work.

It is believed, by petitioning Congressman Esch that the work of destruction, planned as rescue, will be stopped, or that the station will be taken from La Crosse. Fishermen prefer no station at all to the depletion of the bass grounds, croppie holes, and other fishing places to make better grounds in interior Wisconsin, or simply to allow fish to die on the banks.

The lack of large catches within the last two years, in which the station has been operating is blamed to the crews in allowing fish to die, and in the shipment of millions of minnows to other points.

FREEPORT ROWDIES

screamed with pain. Capt. Bond refused the request that another player be permitted to run for him. The refusal angered Pitcher Jack Warhop, who was on the bench. He struck Bond a violent blow.

Tore "Pink's" Ear Off. "The trouble stopped then, but Warhop and Bond began the quarrel again in the ninth inning, when Manager Pink Hawley of La Crosse was drawn into the row. The crowd rushed into the field. Hawley was forced against the screen and threatened with baseball bats. A spectator struck him in the face. A boy on the other side reached through the screen and tore his left ear partly off. His hat was destroyed, his collar and shirt were torn off and he lost his watch chain.

A deputy sheriff and policemen of the club finally succeeded in stopping the disorder until the game was finished, La Crosse winning, 3 to 1. "Hawley refused to play the second game scheduled without police protection. It was declared forfeited to Freeport. Escorted by six policemen, Hawley, the La Crosse players and Umpire Pickett were escorted over the town."

Driven from Field. Telephoning to President Elliott, Manager Hawley said that when the La Crosse club was about to go out on the field for the second game the fans, again came out of the grand stand and made a second charge at the La Crosse players who were driven off the field. They then went to their hotel, and stayed there the remainder of the day.

Umpire Bush, not so bold in the hands of his "own friends" as he had imagined, became so frightened from the threats of the Freeport fans that he promptly forfeited the game over to Freeport, 9 to 0, on account of the non-appearance of the La Crosse team," he said.

Rodemeyer Phones Elliott. President Rodemeyer of the Freeport team, telephoned President Elliott of the La Crosse Champs last evening, and stated that he regretted very much that the riot had occurred.

He claimed, however, that "Pink" Hawley and Captain Bond were mistaken when they said that he "slugged" Bond and he claimed he went onto the field to try to protect the La Crosse players.

He admitted to President Elliott, however, his inability to do so.

Provides Protection Today. He said he would be able to protect them today, as he had been assured by the mayor, chief of police and Sheriff of Stevenson county that ample protection would be furnished.

He also requested, as a special favor, that President Elliott should not take the La Crosse club home.

Directors Go to Freeport. As soon as President Elliott had been informed of the trouble by Manager Hawley, he called a meeting of the directors of the La Crosse Baseball association, as he did not wish to assume the responsibility of calling the team home, upon himself.

The directors after a lengthy discussion delegated Director C. W. Hunt and Henry Rooney to go to Freeport and investigate matters and to act as they saw fit.

They were also given orders by the directors, that if there was a demonstration of any hostility on the field whatever, to bring the club home.

President Elliott Enraged. President Elliott of the local club is enraged over the treatment received at Freeport by his players.

"Warhop should be suspended from the league for the remainder of the season for his assault upon Captain Bond without due provocation," he said this morning.

"The fans were no doubt so incensed by the loss of the first game that they fairly went crazy."

Blames Rodemeyer. "President Rodemeyer is no doubt to blame for the assault upon the La Crosse team. The fact that he 'had to allow' the fans to drive them from the field is evidence enough; he admits that he was 'unable to protect them.'"

Moll's Special Edict. President Charles F. Moll in a recent communication to all the presidents of the various clubs wrote: "To the Presidents:

"I have written to the various clubs that owing to the close fight for positions in several towns in this league, that you must furnish ample protection for the umpires and failure to do this on your part will result badly for your interests."

These umpires must be protected. They are giving the decisions as they see them and you must furnish policemen to protect them.

OTHERWISE THEY ARE INSTRUCTED BY ME TO GIVE THE GAME TO THE VISITING TEAM. The spectators allow themselves to be worked into such a high pitch of excitement that they don't realize what they are doing. Any one in the grand stand getting so abusive as not to be tolerated must be removed by the policemen. We have gotten along so nicely up to the present time that we do not want to have it marred by a few crazy fans. This rule will be strictly lived up to and it is up to you to furnish protection. (Signed) "CHAS. F. MOLL."

"It was up to President Rodemeyer," said President Elliott, "and he failed to afford protection, and not only a few but a whole bunch of crazy fans 'swarmed' out upon the field to try to 'moe' the La Crosse players."

Woman, not a Boy.

A special to the Chicago Tribune from Freeport today, after telling of the riot, says that Manager Hawley drove that it was a lady who lacerated his ear, but that it was a woman who reached through the screen.

BODY OF LAD IS TAKEN FROM RIVER

ROY MORRIS, AGED 13, FALLS IN TO THE MISSISSIPPI

CROWDS SEARCH TWO DAYS WILL PASS THIS CITY SOON

Charles Rausch Finds Body in Fifteen Feet of Water, But Refuses $100 Reward.

The body of little Roy Morris, the 13-year-old lad drowned Sunday near Grabborn Springs, while playing on a home-made raft, was found yesterday by Charles Rausch.

The boy's brother, 8 years of age, and his four-year-old sister, were on the bank when he drowned, and the boy saw him rise and sink.

The mother came running from the house just in time to see her boy sink for the last time. Roy had been playing upon a raft near the shore and fell off and sunk for the third time before assistance could reach him.

Sunday and yesterday until late, crowds searched for the body, but to no avail. Sunday night, after all hopes were given up of finding the body, Thos. Dearman, an uncle of the missing lad, offered $100 for the body.

Monday Chas. Rausch and Frank Geisell were searching the river when the former located the body in about fifteen feet of water some two rods from where the lad had disappeared.

Mr. Rausch was tendered the $100 reward, but refused it, telling Mr. Dearman to give it to the bereaved mother, that she needed it the worst, which was done.

The father of the lad was in Viroqua at the time, but will arrive here today.

The funeral was held this afternoon at the Methodist Episcopal church.

counsel for Alderman Grover, defendant in the action, completed their arguments, and Judge Fruit delivered his charge this morning.

The jury retired at 9:40 o'clock, but returned at 10:30, asking that the charge of the judge be re-read to them, and that the letter, which the defendant wrote to the commissioner of pensions at Washington, be read and given to them, for aid in reaching a verdict. This was done, and the jury again retired.

A special verdict was asked. The defendant did not deny the facts in the case, there being no dispute on the testimony. The duty of the jury is to fix the amount of the damages. Judge Fruit, in his charge, ordered that Mrs. Darling be given some compensation for the wrong done her.

Note Case Next.

The court worn case of Milton Quiggle versus Herman Lovejoy, H. Herman, Harry Jewett, and David Barclay, for the recovery on a promissory note of slightly over $700, given in 1903 on the purchase of a stallion, was taken up next. The case has been fought out in the circuit court once, and carried to the supreme court, which ordered a new trial.

Lovejoy and the remaining defendants purchased a stallion, giving a promissory note. Quiggle later received the paper, and was unable to collect, the owners of the stallion claiming the horse was imperfect. The suit is to recover the face value of the note.

Following is the jury, which was impaneled to hear the merits of the action:

Pat McCauley, August C. Kuntz, A. Lauterbach, F. L. Roberts, J. Ramey, John Terpstra, August W. John, Christian Eckert, John Burbach, R. F. Wallace, Rolla D. Chamberlain, and G. W. Frey.

The plaintiff Quiggle was the first witness sworn this morning under section 4068 for examination by Attorney E. C. Higbee, for the defendants.

In the case of Michael O'Leary against Frank Weidner, the jury was waived and the action made a court case.

and tried to tear off his ear.

Steele Turned Ankle. A Record-Herald special on the riot says that Steele turned his ankle in the eighth and was not spiked as was afterward claimed.

It is presumed that Steele, being a poor runner "turned" his ankle on purpose, in an attempt to have a fast man substituted.

Good Thing For Wausau. The riot may cost Freeport the pennant.

It is pointed out that if La Crosse does not play the remaining games they will be awarded to the Champs according to the special edict of Moll, and if they are played La Crosse may be depended to play with every breath there is in 'em, to put it over the rowdie Cannors for the whole series.

On the other hand Wausau will be fighting hard and will likely stand a good show of winning enough games to put the final "Kibosh" on the Freeport rioters.

ST. PAUL WILL BE A SEAPORT CITY

WATERWAYS COMMISSION IS READY FOR TRIP

Will Not Stop Here, so No Arrangements Will Be Made for Their Entertainment

"St. Paul in five years will be a seaport city. Conditions are just ripe for such a thing."

These are the significant words of W. J. McGhee, secretary of the United States inland waterways commission to the people of St. Paul, where he stopped Sunday night.

While the words mean much to St. Paul, and forecast a seaport city, with the Mississippi forming the waterway to the ocean, the sentence is equally significant for La Crosse, for this city will grow and boom, and become a commercial center along with St. Paul.

Secretary McGhee is on his way to Washington, via St. Louis, preparing to make the start with the commission for inspecting the river from the waterways to the gulf.

The commissioners will arrive at St. Paul on the evening of Thursday, Sept. 26, and leave the next morning on the way down river, probably reaching La Crosse Saturday night.

President Roosevelt will join the party at Keokuk on Oct. 1, being unable to start with the party at St. Paul on account of other engagements. He will take in the trip as far as St. Louis and Memphis. Governors of twenty states will be along.

It will be the biggest gathering of executive authority ever assembled on the Mississippi river. It will be the first time that a president of the United States has traveled on the Mississippi with the object of learning its possibilities. The trip promises great things, as on the outcome of the observations and the resolutions of the president and the commissioners undoubtedly will depend to a considerable extent the future welfare of the Mississippi valley.

Secretary McGhee states that it would be premature to say anything about plans which the commission may have with respect to the development of the Mississippi river. He intimated, however, that the commission has broad plans for the development of the inland waterways, of which the Mississippi river is of supreme importance.

"The development of the Mississippi river is a concomitant to the success of the Panama canal," he said enthusiastically. "The value of the Panama as an artery of the world's commerce depends to a great extent on the development of the Mississippi river for navigable purposes. The Mississippi valley is the greatest producing area in the world."

The result of the trip on the Mississippi river will be submitted to the next session of congress by President Roosevelt. The commission was not appointed until last March, but by next session of congress it will have considerable data at hand, and it is expected that Washington will have much to do and say about the development of inland waterways.

Secretary McGhee believes that the Panama canal is the first step in the direction of water navigation on this continent. The comprehensive plans of the inland commission meet the exigencies of the transportation problem in this country. Mr. McGhee pointed out that the country has grown to such an extent that the railroads may exert themselves to their utmost and they cannot keep pace with the growth of commerce and the increased transportation facilities needed to take care of it. It is then up to the government to take a hand and supply the additional transportation facilities needed by the development of its waterways.

Unless something unforeseen turns up all the members of the commission will be in St. Paul and also in La Crosse next week. The commissioners are: Chairman, Theo. E. Burton of Dayton, Ohio, chairman of the rivers and harbors committee in the house of representatives and attracting considerable interest at present on account of the mayoralty fight between him and Tom L. Johnson at Cleveland; vice chairman, Senator Francis S. Newlands of Nevada; secretary, W. J. McGhee, Washington, D. C., well-known ethnologist and author of several scientific books and an explorer of some note; Senator William Warner of Missouri; Senator John H. Bankhead of Alabama, who was appointed to the commission when he was in the house of representatives, and since has succeeded the late Senator Morgan in the senate; John Alexander McKenzie, chief of engineers, United States army; F. H. Newell, chief of the government reclamation service; Gifford Pinchot, chief of the forestry service, and Herbert Knox Smith, chief of the bureau of corporations, department of commerce and labor.

BUD BY NEIL MUNRO

This little heroine made her first appearance three or four months ago without any fuss, and in the same quiet way she has been winning the heart of the public ever since. "Have you read Bud?" is a question always put with a mysterious, reminiscent smile that will puzzle you until you have taken up the book for yourself. It recounts the experience of a little Chicago girl in a Scotch village—a charming story from cover to cover and absolutely new.

The critics, too, have only affection and kind words for Bud.

"It deserves to be a little classic, this story so full of good writing, and smiles, and right feeling."—A. T. Quiller-Couch.

"Bud is a little girl that every reader will desire to hug."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"To read is to chuckle merrily, yet with an undertone of irrepressible tenderness from first to last."—Chicago Record-Herald.

"One of the most lovable, quaint and amusing little heroines to be imagined."—Portland Advertiser.

PREDICT A STRONG ADVANCE IN CHEESE

PRICES GO UP A PENNY OVER YESTERDAY'S MARKET

OTHER PRICES STATIONARY

Shortage of Cream and Other Causes Responsible for Predicted Skyward Flight

The local vegetable market remains stationary, the only change noted being an advance in the prices of cheese.

Full cream brick advanced one cent per pound, full cream twin advanced to 14 and 14 1/2 per pound, full cream Limburger is now selling at 14 1/2 and 15 and full cream Young American advanced a cent and a half and is now selling at 15 1/2 cents per pound. The advance in cheese is caused by the shortage of cream and the high price at the present. Local cheese dealers predict that the prices in cheese will advance five cents before long.

THE LINCOLN CENTENNIAL.

(Chicago Tribune.)

One of the actions taken by the forty-first annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Saratoga was the passing of a resolution directing the new commander-in-chief to choose a committee, consisting of one from each department of the organization, to prepare plans for the suitable celebration of President Lincoln's 100th birthday anniversary, Feb. 12, 1909.

That date is seventeen months distant, but it is not too early for the formulation of plans by an organization which meets only once a year in national assembly. The adoption of the G. A. R. resolution is a reminder of the suggestion made to the Illinois legislature by Gov. Deneen, that a commission be created with the authority of this commonwealth to make plans for the same event. It is a subject which should be carefully considered in the coming session. Illinois cannot claim the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln, but it does claim him as its greatest citizen. It ought to be the recognized leader in a movement of this kind.

There is no doubt that the centenary of the birth of this illustrious statesman will arouse interest in every hamlet in the land. The name of Lincoln is one which appeals to all. His place in American history is so commanding and the work he performed so remarkable that he stands as a unique character in our annals. It is natural that the men who fought for the flag while he toiled in the White House should want to see him honored upon a scale suitable to his greatness. But Illinois should lead in the matter. It is not too early to plan for what ought to be a memorable day in every part of the republic.

The American Abroad.

It has for years been brought home to us by comment more or less complimentary—that we Americans traveling abroad are closely scrutinized by the Europeans. But perhaps we have not realized that the observing eyes of the younger—in fact, the youngest—generation are turned upon us.

A Parisian woman going to her children's playroom discovered her little boy and girl absorbed in a remarkable occupation. The boy stood motionless and solemn on a small table in the middle of the room. The girl, arrayed in grownup hat and coat, walked slowly round him, regarding him thoughtfully, now and then peering abstractedly into a red covered book in her hand.

"What are you doing, children?" asked the puzzled parent.

"Oh, Paul is the Column Vendome, mamma," gravely explained the sister, "and I am a tourist from America—with a book, you know."

The Canary.

Canaries and other birds in cages, says an authority on the subject, very easily get rheumatism in their poor little legs from damp perches. And as a leg of rheumatism is a legful of rheumatism, and therefore a legful of pain, no matter what the size of the sufferer, it is not to be supposed that rheumatism is a less serious matter for a canary than for an elephant.

The perches, therefore, should be kept dry. If the little feet get sore, bathing in rosewater will cure them. If the bird has a chill it should have two or three doses of olive oil and be sheltered carefully from drafts. Even in warm weather birds should not be hung in drafts, for they are very susceptible to them. Another "don't" for the woman who wants her bird to sing is "don't give the bird sweets." Sweet things affect a bird as they do a human singer—they roughen the voice.

English Proper Names.

As for the pronunciation of place names, "I can give thee a capper," says a north country friend. Ulverston, on the borders of the lake district, is locally known as "Ooston." There is a story about a native who had been to a fell side sheep dog trial and, returning home, got into a wrong train. "Where for?" demanded a porter. "Ooston," grunted the inebriate, so they took him to Euston right away. Why not? "Ooston" has a twin brother, by the way, in "Peetruth," the vernacular rendering of Penarth, which would easily saddle on a story of similar nature about Perth. And at King's Cross you may deceive a booking clerk by asking for a ticket to Oban. He thinks you mean Holborn. —London Chronicle.

NORTH SIDE CARNIVAL PLEASES A MONSTER CROWD

FORMAL OPENING DELAYED UNTIL TONIGHT

FREE ACTS ARE ATTRACTIVE

First Evening's Entertainment Presages Big Success for the North Side Festival

Owing to the inability of the carnival company, under the management of Herbert A. Kline, to secure a sufficient number of drays to haul their paraphernalia from the cars, the formal opening of the carnival did not take place last night. The free shows, however, did their acts and without an exception were pronounced to be the best ever seen before in La Crosse. The Herman Weeden lion act was given with five of the lions in the arena. This was pronounced by many to be marvelous. During the week there will be a complete change of the act every night, and tonight the entire six will be used. The loop the loop bicycle act done by the Castellane brothers also attracted attention. This act is done on the smallest loop in the world. The other free attraction is a comic bicycle act. As well as giving the free acts, the band gave a concert throughout the evening. Considering the opposition attraction at the theaters last night, the crowd that thronged the streets of the North side was the largest that ever turned out.

Tonight the carnival will open in all of its splendor and everything will be going full blast. For the benefit of the ladies and children who will find it impossible to attend the evening performances, matinees will be given at 2:30 every afternoon, beginning tomorrow.

Kempt's miniature city that attracted so much attention at both the Wisconsin and Minnesota state fairs will show on the North side this week. The show comprises a modern city in miniature and is truly a work of art. The Scientific American devoted a full page to discussing and describing it, while the American Boy devoted two full pages. It is claimed by the press all over the country as well as the public in general to be one of the greatest wonders in the scientific world. The time taken to build it was five years and it was made by Fred S. Kempt.

The Kansas Cyclone, another attraction which has created a good deal of favorable comment, is an electrical mechanical device. It gives a perfect representation of a Kansas cyclone in all its fury.

For a show that pleases the public generally, the palm is handed to Dicken's Wild West show. This show carries 20 head of cattle as well as a number of Indians, cow-boys and cow-girls. One of the features of the show is the broncho-busting exhibition that is given at every performance.

Holden's Wild Animal show is also worthy of note. Cows, pigs and horses as well as other domestic animals are to be seen going through intricate drills with seemingly as much sense as human beings.

The Monarch Electric show is also to be seen at the carnival.

The ostrich farm which is located on Hagar street, has six monstrous ostriches. "Cyclone," the monster racing ostrich, is also to be seen. They also have a number of driving ostriches which, hitched to sulkes, are driven around the arena. A number of live alligators are also on exhibition.

The Salome show, which includes poses, serpentine dances and illustrated songs, is among the attractions.

These with the Ferris wheel, merry-go-round, ocean waves and candy and bird wheels comprise one of the best carnivals that has ever visited La Crosse.

MISS ELSIE WITTENBERG IS PLEASEDLY SURPRISED

Miss Elsie Wittenberg was pleasantly surprised Saturday evening at her home, 430 Berlin street, by a number of her friends.

The evening was spent with various games and refreshments were served, all reporting a good time.

Those present were, Misses Elsie Wittenberg, Cora Selzer, Jessie Boyen, Anna Voller, Martha Perversky, Anna Kallen, Bertha Wagner, Lillian Wittenberg and William Ott, Ross Maynard, John Poehling, Oscar Larson, Steve Kranz, Arnold, Marquardt, John Ransloff and Benjamin Degen.

NORTH SIDE BRIEFS

Miss Cora Frey left last evening for Chicago, where she will spend some time as the guest of friends and relatives.

Miss Marion Oswald has gone to Chicago on business.

George McCabe, 1639 Berlin street, who had the misfortune to lose his foot in an accident on the Burlington road recently, for which he has undergone several operations, left yesterday for Chicago, where he will secure an artificial limb.

Policeman—"Now, I oo khere! Where's your light?" Cyclist—"Oh, the wind blew it out!" Policeman (producing his note-book)—"It must have been a terrible gale, your lamp has got blown away too!"

The Indifferent Rich.

A newspaper correspondent was talking about Father Bernard Vaughan of London.

"Though Father Vaughan's congregation," he said, "is one of the most fashionable in the world, the good priest is always on the side of the poor."

"He calls the poor God's pet children, and I once heard him in an address tell the rich that they were responsible for the poor's faults—the drinking and so on—saying that the poverty of the poor wasn't the result of their drinking, but their drinking was the result of their poverty."

"He declared that the rich in their indifference and careless cruelty toward the poor, reminded him of a certain surgeon."

"This surgeon, lecturing a class of students, said:

"I was so excited at my first operation that I made a mistake."

"A serious one, sir?" asked a student.

"Oh, no," the surgeon answered. "I only took off the wrong leg."

—Washington Star.

Responsibilities of a Son.

When Archbishop Trench was dean of Westminster he delegated Canon Cureton to preach at the abbey on a certain saint's day. On such days, says a writer in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, the boys of Westminster school attended service, and afterward had the rest of the day as a holiday.

While Mr. Cureton, on the morning of the day he was to officiate, was looking over his sermon at the breakfast table, his son asked, in a tone vibrating with anxiety: "Father, is yours a long sermon today?"

"No, Jimmy, not very."

"But how long? Please tell me."

"Well about twenty minutes. I should say. But why are you so anxious to know?"

"Because the boys said they would thrash me awfully if you are more than half an hour."

Disappointed.

"That Prof. Blink fooled me bad. How?"

"He told me ethnology was the science of the races and when I went to the library and asked for a book on ethnology there wasn't a word from cover to cover on how to pick winners."—Baltimore American.

HOW TO AVOID APPENDICITIS

Most victims of appendicitis are those who are habitually constipated. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup cures chronic constipation by stimulating the liver and bowels, and restores the natural action of the bowels. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup does not nauseate or gripe and is mild and pleasant to take. Refuse substitutes.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF NAMES GREAT FEATURE OF THE $3500.00 CONTEST

Hundreds of People Interested in Learning Who the Women Are Who Will Compete for the $3,500.00 in Prizes Offered by The Tribune.

250,000 VOTES CAST DURING THE FIRST WEEK

Three Hundred and Fifty Candidates Are in the Field—Many Active Workers Now Striving to Attain the Lead in the Twenty-Five Districts

The first announcement of names of candidates who are competing in The Tribune's contest appeared yesterday, and created a profound impression upon the general public. More interest has been manifested in the contest than ever before. The announcement of names was the thing everyone was waiting for. That has now been made, and there will be no more blind voting. Every one will know just who is in the race, how many votes each candidate has, and just how many competitors there are to battle against.

There were a few surprises sprung yesterday. There were not many candidates who knew that the counts would run over 10,000. These records show work and energy on the part of aspirants. Nearly every candidate in the race could have done as well had she put in all her time to securing subscriptions during the opening days of the race.

With the announcement of names as reported yesterday the $3,500 contest is certainly on full blast. The race is now in its second week and after next Saturday but thirty-five more days will remain in which to secure ballots.

Not one aspirant should feel discouraged at the showing made in yesterday's Tribune. The race is still in its infancy and six weeks remain in the good-natured tug of war which is ample time for the most backward candidate to secure enough votes to obtain the capital prize. Those who are not in the leading positions now should try and attain that exalted place by Monday. It is quite a little advantage for a candidate to lead her district as then her friends will see that she is in the race to win. People, generally, like to help those who help themselves, and those candidates who put forth personal effort will certainly be the winners Oct. 26th.

The next announcement of candidates and the number of votes accorded each will appear in The Tribune Thursday, Sept. 19. The polls for this count close tonight at 8 o'clock. Cast as many votes as you possibly can today if you desire to be in the lead Sunday. Voting has been extremely heavy since the names were announced, and the balloting will increase rapidly from this time forward.

Don't stand back on formality and wait for developments in this contest. Your competitors won't do it, and while you are waiting they will be out getting votes and insuring themselves the best prizes. See your friends and acquaintances today. Get them interested in your candidacy and let them help you secure votes. Get that system to working right and the winning will be easy.

Bear in mind that the number of votes accorded candidates as reported yesterday is no criterion of the probable winners. The leaders today are not necessarily the final winners by any means. Every candidate in the race has an equal opportunity to win right now and every other time. It is not too late to start active work. Nor is it too late to enter the contest. The nominations have not closed yet, nor will they until the race itself has ended.

Those who have candidates in the race should get busy in their behalf. Those who have not should send in the name of their favorite at once. It is not too late to enter a lady in this race, and those who come into the coupon war now have almost as good a chance of winning as those who entered at the very beginning. There are only a few days difference.

Candidates should remember that they are not competing against every contestant in the race, but only those who are in their own immediate district. There are THREE liberal prizes to each one of the eight districts, and all any candidate has to do to win a first prize is to get the largest number of votes in her OWN particular division.

WOMAN ASSAULTED LYNCHING FEARED

VICTIM MAY DIE AS RESULT OF WOUNDS.

IOWA CITIZENS ARE AROUSED

Threaten Summary Punishment to Spurned Suitor—Gives Himself Up to Police.

OTTUMWA, Ia., Sept. 17.—Mrs. William Gravelly, of Albion, after refusing to marry a suitor, George Brooks, retired to her room, and after disrobing, was attacked by her spurned suitor, beaten over the head with a brick and almost knocked senseless.

Endeavoring to escape death, the naked woman ran from the house, but Brooks followed and as she ran he cut her with a long butcher knife.

Driven to desperation, the woman proceeded to a neighbor's house, where in her anxiety to escape her assailant she jumped through a window, shattering the glass with her nude body. Brooks caught her limbs as she jumped and tried to pull her out, but the prompt assistance of the neighbors who, by this time, were awakened by the glass breaking, saved her from further harm from her assailant. Brooks gave himself up to the Albion police.

Jealousy is said to be the cause of the furious attack made by Brooks upon Mrs. Gravelly. He had been boarding at the Gravelly home, and had been paying attention to the woman. She, however, did not return the affection, and upon her refusal to marry him, she became the victim of his fury.

The citizens of Albion are aroused over the assault, and quick justice may be meted out to the assailant.

BEARER OF DEATH NEWS IS KILLED

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 17.—Joseph Blichfeldt, 16 years old, was instantly killed at Thirty-third street and Chicago avenue early last evening by a live wire. He mistook the wire, which hung low, for a twig of a tree. His fingers were burned by the current and he died almost instantly.

Mrs. Blichfeldt's mother died yesterday in Colorado. Mrs. Blichfeldt received the news late in the afternoon and intended to leave with her husband for the west today. The boy, at the time he was killed, was on his way to the home of his cousin to tell him the news from Colorado.

YEGGMEN BLOW UP MINNEAPOLIS SAFE

VAULT IN LAUNDRY IS OPENED BY DARING THIEVES

RESIDENTS PAY NO ATTENTION

Hear Noise, But do Not Investigate. Bookkeeper Takes $300 Home By Chance; Save Coin

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 17.—Safe-blowers, supposed to be the same men who attempted to rob the Farmers' State bank at Waconia several nights ago, cracked the safe in the Despatch laundry building early yesterday morning and got away with $10.

Notwithstanding the fact that the robbers were heard at work, no one made an attempt to capture them. Most of the people who heard the report of the explosion could not locate the noise, neither did they imagine that a theft was being committed.

The "yeggmen" entered the laundry by prying open a rear window. They set to work at the safe which stands at the rear of the building. Charging the safe with a quantity of nitro glycerine, they touched it off. The safe was shattered beyond repair, the doors being blown across the room. The robbers then hastily searched the drawers inside and finding $10 made their escape.

It was only by a chance that they did not get $300. Contrary to her custom, the bookkeeper Saturday night took $300 home with her instead of leaving it in the safe.

Detectives believe that the robbers had received information that a large sum of money was deposited in the strong box. By their work they showed themselves to be experts.

When the explosion occurred, a number of people living near by got out of their beds and looked out the windows. This was at 4:40 in the morning. Not seeing anyone around they went to sleep again and the robbery was not discovered until yesterday forenoon.

NORTHWEST BRIEFS

SHELANDOAH, Ia.—Ennis Moore, city marshal, arrested John Beck for drunkenness. On the way to the lockup Beck resisted and attempted to escape, and in the scuffle the marshal fell and his knee cap was shattered on a jagged rock. It was a severe and painful injury that will disable him permanently. Beck was fined $150, but the marshal has brought civil suit against him for $5,000 damages.

NORA SPRINGS, Ia.—While in the act of descending the steps of the First National bank at this place, R. A. Anderson, a prominent resident 33 years of age, fell, fracturing his hip and left arm. He was picked up unconscious.

RHODES, Ia.—A peculiar accident occurred here, resulting from the play of two children, James Wallace and his sister, Edith. The youngsters were romping about their father's lawn, one running after another. They collided, and the little girl's teeth struck her brother in the forehead, breaking one of them off.

MASON CITY, Ia.—The police unearthed the den of a kleptomaniac in the person of Frank Bunda, an employe of the Northwestern as a freight handler last week. In the raid of Bunda's room, every sort of an article known in the line of wearing apparel was found.

WATERLOO, Ia.—Perry E. Canfield, a Waterloo lumberman, has brought suit against the Chicago Great Western Railroad company for damages in the amount of $5,000. Canfield alleges he got on the passenger train at Dunkerton to ride to Waterloo and that when the conductor asked his fare he presented a mileage book marked "good until April 15, 1908." He alleges the conductor refused to take the fare from the book and informed him that the 2-cent fare law rendered his book null and void.

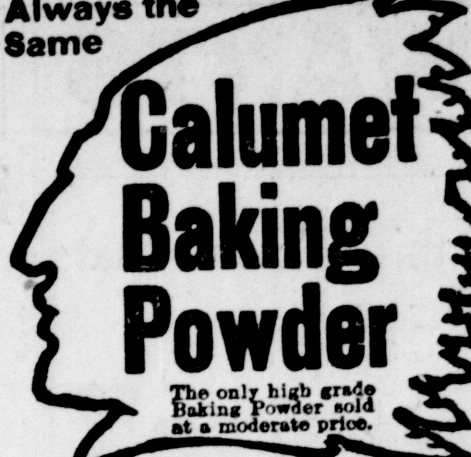

CHASKA, Minn.—Ernest Zamjah, of this city, was caught in a cave-in of a clay bank in one of the local brickyards and was seriously injured, sustaining a broken leg, four fractured ribs and a fracture of the shoulder. Mr. Utecht, a fellow laborer, was also injured, but not seriously.

MINNESOTA LAKE, Minn.—The saloonkeepers here have decided to do away with the serving of free lunches, and the agreement went into effect Monday.

A Humane Appeal. A humane citizen of Richmond, Ind., Mr. U. D. Williams, 107 West Main St., says: "I appeal to all persons with weak lungs to take Dr. King's New Discovery, the only remedy that has helped me and fully comes up to the proprietor's recommendation." It saves more lives than all other throat and lung remedies put together. Used as a cough and cold cure the world over. Cures asthma, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, quinsy, hoarseness, and phthisis, stops hemorrhages of the lungs and builds them up. Guaranteed at O. T. Erhart's drug store, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

MOTORBOATS WILL BE IN BIG PARADE

WILL BE FEATURE OF TEDDY'S TRIP DOWN RIVER

THOUSANDS TO BE IN LINE

Officials Preparing Program for Visit of the President and His Party Down River.

The parade on the river from Keokuk down the stream to Quincy and perhaps to St. Louis, will be one of the leading features of the first day of October, when the president, the waterways commission, the governors of a dozen states and the Iowa state officers will visit Keokuk. Major Meigs, chairman of the parade committee, has been doing some very faithful work along the line of securing the presence here of the boats along the river in the different cities, paying particular attention to the power boats, gasoline crafts and launches. In addition to writing the owners of these boats he has visited several cities, on the river in this neighborhood and saw the owners of the boats.

Major Meigs reports that there are sixty launches in Quincy, a good number of which he hopes to see here. Ft. Madison has a large number of launches, as has Burlington and many of these will be here on October 1. Dallas City, Warsaw and other places on the river each have a number of gasoline launches and the presence of many of them is promised for the water display that will begin its parade here. It is proposed to have a practice of the Keokuk boats before the day of the big doings, the idea being to practice them for the parade formation, as they will head the line of boats and make it easy for the others to follow in their wake and execute the maneuvers. The boats will all be tied up at the bank here and when the boat bearing the presidential party starts the gasoline boats will form four abreast and then separate two and two, leaving a lane down the middle of which the president's boat will pass, the Keokuk fleet being in the lead and directing the movements of the other boats.

Quincy Whiz: A flotilla of row boats and launches, flags floating from stern and jacks forward, headed by the cutter of the naval reserves, will line the river before Quincy when President Roosevelt's fleet sails down stream on its way to Memphis, Oct. 1.

As the president's steamer passes through the draw of the river bridge at Keokuk, the first of the twenty-one guns of the president's salute will boom from the naval reserves' cutter. At about the same time six giant bombs will be exploded on the sand bar below the bridge, each of which, as it bursts in the air will scatter 12-inch flags.

From the moment the bridge whistle sounds for the opening of the draw to allow the passage of the president's steamer 150 whistles will send forth their salute, continuing until the fleet has passed out of sight below the city.
